Legislative Update

Elizabeth Perez is looking into a long list of initiatives: petitions to put road humps on major thoroughfares through the neighborhood, to stop drag racing; a 380 tax-rebate agreement with the city to attract a business to the old bowling alley near Meadowcreek; and sidewalks for Highway 3/Old Galveston Road so that students walking to school won't be risking their lives.

Old Business

Signs: The civic club has ordered a new vertical banner, 5' tall.

Mark Clemmons and Greg Brown are looking for volunteers to help move the MVCC sign near Elim Church.

Mark Clemmons reported that 16 new aluminum signs, identifying Meadowcreek Village as "a deed-restricted neighborhood," and giving the website's address, will be placed on light poles around the neighborhood.

Another new sign will announce the civic club's meeting date and time.

Six Texas Night Out signs should be ordered for October.

The total for all the new signs will be between $500 and $600.

Texas Night Out: Volunteers are needed to host parties or help with events in October.

Election of new MVCC officers: Will take place at the October meeting.

The St. Augustine church bazaar: MVCC will have a booth there on October 5.

The meeting was adjourned at 7:54 p.m.
